

INTERNATIONAL CENTRE FOR COMPLEX
PROJECT
MANAGEMENT

WHAT DOES A PROJECT MANAGER OF THE FUTURE LOOK LIKE?

The future success of an organisation relies on the ability to manage a diverse body of talent that can bring innovative ideas, perspectives and views to their work. The challenge and problems created by workplace diversity can be turned into a strategic asset if an organisation is able to capitalise on this melting pot of diverse talents.

Panellists:

- Traci-Ann Byrnes – First Assistant Secretary, Program Performance, Australian Department of Defence, Capability Acquisition and Sustainment Group;
- Ashleigh Streeter-Jones – ACT Woman of the Year, Director, Future 21: Young Australians in International Affairs;
- Megan Banfield – National Manager, Online Services, CIO Group, Department of Human Services;
- Dr. John Bensley – Academic Director, QUT Canberra & Learning Innovation, QUT Graduate School of Business.

Join the discussion.

Our panellists will share their experiences and perspectives from different industries and positions, on managing and leveraging diverse talents.

FIND OUT MORE AND REGISTER.

What: Breakfast Panel Event

When: 28 March 2019

Where: EAST Hotel Canberra

Time: 0730 - 1000

ICCPM Member and Corporate
Partner rates available.

Book a table of 10 and save!

REGISTER NOW!

Contact ICCPM: +61 2 6120 5110
www.iccpm.com

Follow us:

Event Sponsor:
Queensland University of Technology,
Graduate School of Business.

